NORWALK, Conn., Jan. 3, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Winchester Interconnect Corporation ("Winchester"), a portfolio company of Snow Phipps Group ("Snow Phipps"), announced today that it completed its acquisition of C&M Corporation ("C&M" or the "Company") from The Watermill Group ("Watermill"). Headquartered in Dayville, CT, C&M is a producer of custom cable focused on the Industrial, Medical and Military markets. The acquisition of C&M complements Winchester's product line by adding cable manufacturing capabilities.

Kevin Perhamus, CEO of Winchester, said, "This acquisition marks the largest in Winchester's history and provides us with access to the attractive industrial automation market. The complementary nature of that market and C&M's cable manufacturing product line will allow us to vertically integrate the Company and its products, and we look forward to working with the experienced C&M management team to drive growth and explore all the opportunities this combination will deliver."

John Pless, Partner at Snow Phipps, said, "The acquisition further establishes Winchester as a market leader of connectivity solutions to customers across the globe. We will continue to work with the Winchester team to aggressively grow the business both organically and through acquisitions, and are excited about the addition of the C&M team and product portfolio."

John Laskowsky, CEO of C&M, said, "All of us at C&M are excited to join the Winchester team. As part of Winchester, we will continue our commitment to our customers while leveraging all that the combined company has to offer to find new avenues for growth."
